

Venison (meat) from deer taken with a gun may have tiny pieces of lead in it, which may not be noticed when eaten.

Lead is most harmful to pregnant women and small children.

Pregnant women and families with small children might want to choose other types of meat such as lean beef or chicken.